DISCOVERY DAY CAMPS

NO SCHOOL DAY CAMPS!

DIY: November 11, 2011

Do It Yourself is all the craze!! Campers will learn all about the process of making things from start to finish as they make their own soap, create foam rockets, and mono-print t-shirts brought from home. This camp promises lots of proud moments as kids discover how competent and talented they really are!

Drama: February 20, 2012

From reciting nursery rhymes to performing plays, children in the Drama camp will take the stage in many exciting ways. Campers will learn theatrical basics including vocal projection, character development and more. They will also familiarize themselves with concepts such as team work and self confidence as they create and present their own skits for one another. This camp is sure to be a great time!

Wood Works: February 27, 2012

Any child can be an artist, but have they tried working with wood? Wood Works camp will give campers the opportunity to create a wall shelf, a changeable maze and marble game, and a work of art all made from wood.

Fabric Fun: February 28, 2012

Fabric is fun...especially when you see the designs we have for you to choose from. Let your personality shine when you create a fabric friend that looks like you and your own special pillow case to rest your head on as you dream of your next amazing creation!

Music and Movement: April 27, 2012

Can you move to the rhythm? Join us for Music and Rhythm day camp to get your groove on! Campers will learn about rhythm and accents in dance, create their own rhythm instrument and try scarves and ribbon dancing.

WINTER BREAK CAMPS!

Stop Motion: December 21, 2011

Have you dreamed of being the director and creator of an animated short movie? Join us for Stop Motion camp where campers will work together to create an awesome mixed media adventure. After the adventure is complete each child will receive their own DVD copy.

Sculpey: December 22, 2011

It is time to break out the clay and get creative with Sculpey, an awesome oven bake polymer craft clay. Kids will learn how to use it to make beads, puppets and many more fun projects.

Wizards: December 23, 2011

Come join the magical world of wizards! Making potions, designing a house crest, and creating a magical wand are just a few of the wizardly activities planned for this magical day.

Take a trip across the United States! Taste food, sample sounds, & learn about historic sites during winter break day camps.

Northeast Monday: December 26, 2011

Sample maple syrup on mini pancakes, construct a covered bridge model, check out some Broadway talent and more while we explore what the Northeast United States has to offer.

Southeast Tuesday: December 27, 2011

Design your own steamboat, taste Florida produce, listen to some blues and more while we discover what makes the Southeast United States unique.

Midwest Wednesday: December 28, 2011

Redesign Mt. Rushmore, create your own faux fossil, build an arch and more while we explore the Mid-Western United States.

West Coast Thursday: December 29, 2011

Learn how to hula, design a colossal bridge, study the majestic moose and more when we discover what makes the West Coast of the United States special.

Southwest Friday: December 30, 2011

Make your own stalactites, meet some Arizona wildlife, listen to Blind Lemon Jefferson and more when we tour the Southwest United States without leaving home!

Innovation: January 2, 2012

It's time to build a better thinking cap! Learn new ways to generate ideas for your creations. Create a Rube Goldberg machine, make an old invention "new and improved" and build a kinetic sculpture with no glue, tape or staples.

Science of Sound: January 3, 2012

Has your family had time to truly explore The Iowa Children's Museum City Music exhibit? Campers will learn about sound waves, how the ear hears music and get hands-on experience with our tuning forks. They will also get the chance to create their own music on our iPad and in the recording studio.

SPRING BREAK CAMPS!

Clay: March 12, 2012

Spring break is the perfect time to get messy! Join us for Clay camp and make awesome art with ceramic clay. Campers will make a faux mosaic, an Egyptian vessel and a wind chime. All Clay creations will be fired and ready for pick up the following week.

Science: March 13, 2012

Kids will learn science activities to impress their friends using stuff from around the house. During Science camp kids will make foil boats, collapsing bottles, indestructible bags, loop the loop and much more.

Trash to Treasures: March 14, 2012

Be just like the famous interior designers on T.V. Using mostly materials destined for the scrap heap, kids will make a cool clock, tin can luminary, plastic bottle animal and more.

Nature: March 15, 2012

What's a better way to spend spring break than out in nature? The Iowa Children's Museum is bringing nature indoors for Nature camp where we will create a faux fossil, make seed bombs, learn about our local wild and plant life and how to protect it.

Cooking: March 16, 2012

Cooking is a skill everyone benefits from! Cooking camp will start kids on the road to becoming a cooking pro. Campers will prepare a full meal, with main and side dish, drink and dessert. Campers will also start their own recipe book. Be featured in other camper's books by bring a copy of a recipe to share.
